THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Press Conference Contrast

Washington, Feb. 21—LAST week's presidential press conference was the toughest Mr. Truman has had since he entered the White House last April. The Pauley-Likes row had put him in a particularly hot spot. For a considerable period he had been subjected to severe criticism on various grounds from all quarters. Hardly a kind printed word had been given him. There seemed something almost like a journalistic effort to "gang up" on him.

IT IS not easy for any man to take this sort of stuff for three weeks and then face 150 newspaper men eager to cross-examine him as enthusiastically as possible. Mr. Truman's predecessor had no such experience. In the first place, he had built up a large and protective following which, with his supporting press, condoned everything he did. In the second place, it was a settled Roosevelt policy to denounce all critical newspapers as sordid, sinister and mendacious. This same "Honest Harold" Ickes, often called Mr. Roosevelt's "hatchet man," was the favorite instrument chosen for this kind of assault.

ALSO, Mr. Roosevelt had a skill in the handling of press conferences such as Mr. Truman has not developed. For one thing, he had a good many newspaper men afraid of him. Instead of answering a question, he would tell the questioner that he was silly, or suggest to him to put a dunce cap on, or present him with an iron cross. For another, he used the planted question with great effect in embarrassing situations. For another, he was not at all scrupulous in his resort to weapons of ridicule, of which he had many. For another, he was not good tempered under pointed questions.

THE contrast between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman in their handling of themselves at news conferences is very great. Mr. Truman uses almost none of the methods which Mr. Roosevelt so adroitly used. Last week he could have employed some of them effectively—if he had been able. But, apparently, he was not able. At any rate, he did not try. There came no patronizing banter or first-name calling, no skilled evasion, no evidence of irritation. Instead, he stood behind his desk and, smiling, invited questions. He answered them all squarely and without equivocation—unless you could call equivocation his answer to the one as to whom he thought was telling the truth—Ickes or Pauley. To this, Mr. Truman said it seemed a fair effort for him to call someone a liar and suggested that the questioner wait until all the evidence is in and draw his own conclusion.

TO many questions his answer was a plain "yes" or "no." But in all cases the answers were adequate and direct. And they seemed to satisfy the questioners. No one felt that he had ducked or dodged. Certainly, no one thought he had

Steal 4 Diamond Rings From Jeweler's Window

QUAKERTOWN, Feb. 21—Four diamond rings valued at $200 were stolen from the Goldsmith Jewelry store window on Monday, the thief or thieves cutting a hole, 2½ feet in diameter, in the plate glass. Other valuables in the window remained untouched. More expensive articles had been removed when the store was closed Saturday night. It is believed the thieves were scared away before they could steal additional articles. The robbery was discovered by Robert Weisel who notified the local police.

Keen Interest Manifest In Kindergarten Plans

Considerable interest was shown on the part of mothers of small children when they assembled in two different public school buildings here yesterday and Tuesday, to hear tentative plans for a kindergarten discussed by superintendent of Bristol public schools, Warren P. Snyder.

Although neither meeting was largely attended, those present expressed the belief there are many others interested who were unable to attend.

The mothers plan to urge other mothers to enroll their children for kindergarten sessions, which enrollment may take place at any of the Bristol public elementary schools. Girls and boys who will have reached their fifth birthday anniversary by Jan. 31, 1947, may be enrolled for kindergarten classes next September.

The project was discussed from many angles—location, transportation, etc. The building with the best physical facilities is the Beaver street school, it was pointed out, but transportation there is one of the problems. If enrollment does not reach sufficient for four classes it is possible that one room will be arranged in the center of the borough, but no buildings in that section offer play facilities either for clear or stormy days that the Beaver street building does, Mr. Snyder informed.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Close to 300 boys and girls from Bristol, Newtown, George School and Buckingham, cast aside their books Tuesday morning to get some different kind of knowledge first-hand.

They spent the day attending a session of Bucks county criminal court, with their teachers in charge of the various groups.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer, presiding in the case of the Commonwealth against George Hill, a Negro, charged with cutting another Negro with a knife, explained to the young visitors this morning what had taken place in the trial up until the time they arrived to listen in. Then the Judge introduced Assistant District Attorney Willard S. Curtin, who is prosecuting the case, pointed out the defendant and his attorney, and called court to order.

The only comment—a whisper from the young visitors—took place when Judge Boyer mentioned that the defendant had stabbed another Negro with a knife.

"Oh, gee, this is going to be good."

Addressing a meeting of Newtown Parent-Teacher Association in the high school, at Newtown, on Monday evening, Dr. Ruth Cunningham, of the extension institute staff of the teachers' college of Columbia University, declared children should be permitted to make their own choices rather than be forced to do what they do not want. Dr. Cunningham made it clear, however, that parental guidance is needed in helping the children make their choices for life.

Parents, declared Dr. Cunningham, should be satisfied to have their children mature naturally rather than to try to have them

ROHM & HAAS BUYS PLANT AT KNOXVILLE

Bristol Firm Takes Over
$1,096,200 Plant From
The R. F. C.

TO MAKE PLEXIGLAS

Purchase from the R. F. C. of the Knoxville, Tennessee, plant, which the company operated during the war, was confirmed today by the Rohm & Haas Company through L. W. Covert, vice-president. The purchase price for the property was $1,096,200. Manufacture of sheet Plexiglas, the company's war-famous transparent plastic, will be resumed this spring with a gradually-increasing number of employees. V. C. Henrich, who managed the wartime operations of the plant, will continue in charge.

"Our decision of several months ago to stop production in this plant," said Covert, "was reached when it became apparent that peace-time operation of the plant under Defense Plant Corporation lease was not practical. As owners of the property, we feel we will be able to resume operations on a satisfactory basis with the gratifying feeling that we now have a permanent place in Knoxville industry. The demand for sheet Plexiglas is steadily increasing and the results of market studies are most promising for a future of continued activity in the plant. We are grateful to our many friends in Knoxville, including the Knoxville Chamber of Commerce, and the other agencies who helped us in many ways during our wartime operations and who encouraged us to continue operation, if at all possible after the war, in the Knoxville community."

The plant is located on Dale avenue. At one time a woodworking plant making body parts for the automotive industry, it was rehabilitated in 1943 by Rohm & Haas under D. P. C. contract to help meet the urgent wartime need for greatly increased production of Plexiglas, which was used for transparent enclosures on every type of Army and Navy plane. The speed and ingenuity with which the reconversion of the plant was carried out in the face of material shortages was a subject of wide comment at the time.

Buffet Supper Follows Evening of Sociability

Miss Mary Ann Duffy, Walnut street, entertained at her home, Tuesday evening, in honor of her sister, Mrs. James McCue. Second avenue. A social time was followed by a buffet supper. Pink and blue decorations were used. Mrs. McCue was presented with gifts.

Those present: Mrs. Thomas Profy, Mrs. Frank Profy, Mrs. Earl Jeffries, Mrs. Louise Guber, Mrs. William Sacco, Mrs. Frank Lohr, Mrs. Robert Rue, Mrs. Margaret Duffy, Misses Mary Russo, Rose Spezzano, Jean Brown, Josephine DiLorenzo, Ann Esposito.

"TRUST OPA?"

The nearest thing to an outright confession that no one really knows what the OPA is trying to do is contained in the remark of Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach: "Sign up and trust OPA."

This is the advice he gave industry in general and strike-ridden enterprises in particular.

One thing is painfully apparent to those who have studied President Truman's recent wage-price "formula": no one can tell what it means.

Obvious on the face is that six months of fighting inflation with price controls has been a complete failure. Obvious also is that the President and Chester Bowles are cheerfully planning to carry out the same mock-battle along the same lines for the next full year—if Congress extends the OPA law.

Aside from that, the President used a lot of nice words but mixed them up in a pattern that does not make sense.

Labor has been unable to tell whether the formula would put an end to collective bargaining; management hasn't the faintest idea when and what price concessions are to be made.

Under these circumstances the Schwollenbach remark really boils down to this: "Sign up and trust OPA; you don't know, and we can't tell you, what the OPA is going to do—but just cross your fingers."

Is OPA trustworthy? For terrific pressure is building up in Congress to scrap the agency in its present form and replace it with something which will confine its "controls" to profiteering.

PACIFIC EMPLOYEES STILL ON A STRIKE

Plant Manager in Statement
Outlines the Company's Position

MEN OUT 4½ WEEKS

Employees of the Pacific Steel Boiler Corporation, which is a division of the United States Radiator Corporation, are still on strike, having been out since January 21st, when the nation-wide steel strike became effective.

E. M. Swartz, plant manager, today issued a statement in which he outlined the company's position.

"The company has agreed to an 18½-cent-an-hour increase for all workers from the date they return to work," said Mr. Swartz. "But still under dispute are the following points: The men want 9½ cents retroactive pay from January 1st to January 18th, 1946, while the company's position on this is that 9½ cents was granted 'Big Steel' employees to compensate for loss of 'take home' pay since the companies had shortened the work week to 40 hours. Our employees were on a 48-hour week with pay for 52 hours when the strike was called, and we feel that our workers suffered no loss."

Mr. Swartz also stated that his company wants assurances by the union that a full day's work will be granted in return for the new increased full day's pay through the installation of a new incentive system and some other minor "company security" provisions toward the same end. When these differences are reconciled the company will sign the agreement ending the strike and payment of the new increased wages upon approval of the Wage Stabilization Board, if the same is required at that time."

If George Washington never told a lie he'd make a dull wit-ness at a Congressional hearing.

And there'd be no future for him in politics, diplomacy or domestic relations.

Washington's birthday is a time for all men to stop and reflect on his honesty and their cleverness.

Anyhow we have come through most of Brotherhood Week with very few fist fights.

It was touching to see the endorsements of Brotherhood Week by so many prominent citizens who don't have a civil word for each other.

They are all in favor of brotherhood provided they can keep their personal targets.

Anyway the Eastern Bridge Championships finally united North and South. They beat East and West in spades.

FATHERS TO PROMOTE CONTESTS FOR PUPILS

Prizes To Be Offered For Activities Among Borough and Township Students

ARRANGE "VARIETIES"

Plans are being formulated by the Fathers' Association of Bristol public schools to conduct contests in the Bristol borough and Bristol township schools. The idea is to have classes that are very efficient in spelling, geography, etc., to compete against each other. The class or pupils will receive prizes as winners. In some cases, hobby contests will be held, such as airplane building, doll collections, etc. In the high schools, essays will be written upon such subjects as "What should a new high school contain?" "Does Bristol (or Bristol Township) need a new high school?" "Should we combine the Bristol and Township schools into one large school?" The contest plan meets the approval of Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol schools, and Andrew Jackson, supervising principal of the township schools.

These contests were announced last evening at the February meeting of the Fathers' Association held in the high school cafeteria. The contests will be in charge of the executive board.

Plans were also discussed for the annual Fathers' "Varieties Show" to be held in April. Vice-President Arthur Phipps conducted the meeting in the absence of the president, James Wierley.

After the business meeting a musical program was given in the library room. Following group singing, a quartet, consisting of Mrs. Ralph Hart, Miss Jean Townsend, Henry Adams and John Whynatt, rendered "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Good Night, Beloved," and "Londonderry Air."

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer "Stumps" the "Experts"

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 21—Judge Calvin S. Boyer had the experience this week of hearing a question he had submitted asked during a popular radio program this week.

It was more than a year ago that Judge Boyer had submitted the question, and he found it somewhat changed for use on the radio. When the query was placed the "experts" were "stumped" regarding a famous dream in literature.

The first annual Sea Scout dinner for the Sea Scouts and Sea Scouters of the Bucks County Council Boy Scouts of America was held on Monday evening at the Doylestown Inn, Doylestown, with a group of 49 in attendance from all parts of Bucks County.

A young man, in order to be accepted as a cadet, is required to be a high school graduate and to have passed college entrance examination requirements. From January to July of each year the entire school work is aboard ship with sailing to South America, the Mediterranean and other warmer climes. The school turns out men for maritime service and also leads to commissions in the U. S. Naval Reserve." Commander Dodson was introduced by the Hon. Thomas B. Stockham, regional commodore of the Boy Scouts of Region Three.

F. P. Kemmerer, chairman of the senior scout planning committee, presided at the meeting. Guests present were the Rev. Alexander B. Davidson, council president; William Burgess, Jr., county scout commissioner; S. A. Miller, chairman training council committee; Raymond W. Hoxworth, scout executive; William Fryckberg, and Lloyd S. Bucher, district commissioner; and H. Harper Stockham, neighborhood commissioner. RECREATION BOARD MEETS TO ORGANIZE

Louis C. Spring Named As Chairman; S. D. Detlefson,
Secretary

PLAN FOR EQUIPMENT

The recently-appointed Recreation Board of the Borough of Bristol met last evening for purposes of organization. A chairman and secretary were elected, and plans were discussed for putting into effect as soon as practical suggestions of the board.

Louis C. Spring was elected chairman, and Serrill D. Detlefson, secretary.

It was decided to request the police department to at once notify those who have any property on land which is included in the recreation area to remove it.

The fire department is to be requested to burn the grass of the area off as soon as the weather is favorable.

The board will begin at once to receive prices on some of the equipment which is to be installed for the smaller children. Plans are yet to be formulated and worked out for that portion of the tract consisting of nine acres which is to be used as football and baseball diamond, and for other sports and recreations of adults.

The Recreation Board met in the municipal building with the following members present: Louis C. Spring, Mrs. Minerva Epstein, Charles Weik, and Serrill D. Detlefson. Another member, David Landreth, was unable to attend, due to being away on a business trip.

The meeting last night was called to order by Burgess Jacob C. Schmidt, who presided during the organization session. The board is charged with equipping, operating and maintaining all the playgrounds, play-fields and other recreation facilities which now or hereafter may be owned by the borough.

The activities of the board for the time being will be concentrated on equipping and maintaining the 14 acres of ground recently donated to the borough for recreation purposes by former senator Joseph R. Grundy. The board has a fund of $25,000 which was also contributed by Mr. Grundy for the purposes of establishing the recreation center

BRISTOL CASES ARE BEFORE THE COURT; SENTENCES GIVEN

GAMBLING CASES

Clifford Bills and Vito Larosa Plead Guilty and Pay
Fines of $50 Each

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 21—Two defendants, Fred Reinas 225 Conover street, Burlington N. J., and King Robert Holzendorf, Bristol Terrace both of whom pleaded guilty to illegal possession and transportation of liquor, were given fines by Judge Boyer.

The New Jersey defendant was fined $300 and a prison sentence of not less than three months was suspended on condition that he pay the fine and costs of prosecution.

The Bristol Negro was fined $250 and directed to pay the costs of prosecution. In the event of failure to pay the fine, he will be imprisoned. The two men were arrested by Federal officers January 11th, when they were apprehended after allegedly having stolen whiskey from the Hunter-Wilson Distilling Company at Bristol.

Clifford Bills, 37, of Mill street, and Vito Larosa, 39, both of Bristol, pleaded guilty before Judge Hiram H. Keller yesterday to charges of setting up a gambling establishment, permitting assemblages for gambling, and renting premises for gambling. The offenses were committed three years ago.

In both cases sentence was suspended on condition that each man pay $50 to the county in lieu of a fine. Both men, who were represented by John Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., Bristol attorney, were placed on probation for one year.

The case has just come before the court due to the fact that Larosa has been in the armed forces, serving overseas. He was recently discharged.

Bristol Chief of Police, Linford J. Jones, testified that he and other Bristol police officers raided the cigar store and pool-room operated by Larosa and Bills three years ago, and in a rear room found setups for crap and card games where gambling occurred. "Neither of the defendants were present when the raid was made," testified the police chief, "but the two were apprehended later," and according to Jones neither denied operation of a gambling place.

Bills on the stand testified that he is now unemployed, he having a nervous breakdown. He stated he went in the business three years ago "to help Larosa," and since his arrest has not been connected with any gambling activity.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Keller said "The district attorney's office has received many complaints about gambling going on in Bristol. We know enough to know that gambling will never stop, but we are not going to permit it to be done openly. It is not fair that fellows like you put Bristol police officers 'on the spot.' Contrary to some things I have heard I don't believe Bristol police close their eyes on these gambling places. If you get here again it will not be so easy with you."

George Hill 22, colored Second street Trenton, N. J., who was convicted of "cutting" Thelma Johnson and her brother William, both of Newtown was sentenced by Judge Calvin S. Boyer to pay the costs of prosecution and serve not less than one and one-half years nor more than three in the County Prison.

Hill, who was convicted by a jury on two bills charging him with aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery, was sentenced on both bills but the sentences will run concurrently.

"Your story is absurd; in fact, ridiculous, about your trailing Thelma Johnson in an attempt to get a watch of yours," said Judge Boyer. "No matter what she had of yours that you wanted, you had no right to assault her, follow her about in a car and push her about."

"We will not tolerate having our citizens chased all about the county from town to town as you were doing," Judge Boyer said.

Mrs. Thelma Johnson and Mrs. Rena Cooper both of Newtown, testified that on October 14, 1944, they were being taken to pay a visit in Yardley and that the defendant walked up to the car and cut Thelma on the face. A younger brother, William, who was coming home from the movies, asked the defendant why he had cut his sister, and the defendant cut the youth in the face too.

Robert B. Samuels, of Paulsboro, N. J., who was an MP in the Army, testified he was the driver of the car and that he heard the click of

Claim Nazi Commissions Competed in Looting

Nuernberg—The looting of European cultural centers by Nazi commissions which competed with each other like rival gangs of hijackers was described today by Russian war crimes prosecutors.

Evidence disclosed that Hitler himself carried away carloads of priceless Gobel tapestries from the Hradschin Palace in Prague in 1939.

An imposing list of Russian and other museums plundered and destroyed with the consent of the German army was read to the tribunal.

Rival "looting commissions" were sent out by former Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and by Nazi party philosopher Alfred Rosenberg.

May Adopt Anti-Discrimination Amendment

Washington—Adoption of an anti-discrimination amendment threatened to result today in the termination of all Federally-aided school lunch programs.

A bloc of Southern Democrats in the House announced it would vote against legislation establishing a permanent school lunch program as a result of the adoption of the amendment.

The controversial proviso was sponsored by Rep. Powell (D) N. Y., and was adopted by a standing vote of 114 to 48, subject to a formal roll call vote this afternoon.

The votes of the Southern bloc, plus those of Republicans opposed to the legislation, were sufficient to threaten seriously passage of the bill sponsored by Rep. Flannagan (D) Va., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

The amendment provided that no Federal funds should be given States which discriminate against racial minorities in schools in the distribution of hot lunches.

PREMATURE ALARM

The most kindly thing to be said about a statement credited to the United States Department of Agriculture that a new dust bowl was forming in Southwestern Kansas and Northwestern Oklahoma is that it was a bit premature, according to observers on the ground.

It is true, of course, that the region had a "blow" which in a small degree was similar to those suffered during the protracted drought of several years ago. It is also true there has been a shortage of moisture during recent months, and the wheat crop is not too promising at the moment because of a lack of rainfall.

But there is nothing in the present situation to justify predictions that another dust bowl era is starting. To take the position a season of unfavorable growing conditions will serve to whip farmers in the areas affected is to admit a woeful lack of understanding of a people which has gone through many more serious trials and tribulations to establish and maintain, through thick and thin, a vast and rich empire.

There is none to deny the effective service rendered by the Department of Agriculture. It has done much to improve farming conditions in all parts of the nation. But in this instance Washington has failed to take into consideration the spirit of the people who may be facing unfavorable growing conditions which will be only temporary at the worst.

Should these conditions persist—and to predict that they will is only a guess—they will be met by courage and intelligence. That is the way of those who dwell on the prairies.

WHIST RADIOS SO DREAM

Periodically newspaper readers learn about some war-developed scientific marvel which can be translated into peacetime usefulness. The proximity fuse is the latest.

The proximity fuse, of course, was a tiny radio fitted into the nose of an artillery shell. It caused the shell to explode when it got within a certain distance of its target. It was one of the most important of America's secret weapons.

The proximity fuse in peacetime won't blow up anything, but according to Dr. Cleo Brunetti of the National Bureau of Standards, it will permit the manufacture of radio sets no bigger than a package of cigarettes but producing reception equal to that of the usual table model radio.

Without going into technical details, it may be said that the tiny radio sets of the future will have their wiring stenciled in thin silver lines on a flat plate instead of the copper wiring system now in use. Tubes will be less than an inch long. Tiny loud speakers have been developed.

The possibilities of this radio development are fascinating. Who doesn't eagerly await the day when America is a nation of people completely wired for sound?

"TRUST OPA?"

OPA can be judged in three different ways: One, has it kept its specific promises of policy? Two, has it attained its underlying goal of keeping essentials available on an equal basis to the American people? Three, has it controlled prices?

Less than a year ago, shortly after Mr. Truman became President and while the war was still going on, Chester Bowles went before a Congressional committee begging for an extension of the agency.

Behind him was the President, who pleaded for the continuance of the OPA as a war measure.

Then as now, OPA was under heavy fire. The criticism was not along political lines. Some of the hottest critics were Democrats.

Mr. Bowles made, in effect, two promises to Congress with respect to OPA policy. He promised to stop seeking to use the power to control the economy of the nation, and he promised to see that no price rulings prevented reasonable profits.

Neither promise has been kept. The present drive of the Truman-Bowles combine is to use OPA as an anvil to beat out the type of economy which they privately believe the nation ought to have. The fact that the American people don't want a managed economy, and that the whole program is inflationary in nature, doesn't stop the effort any more than does the fact it is a policy which OPA had promised to avoid.

Has OPA prevented scarcities? No one, not even OPA itself, can pretend this to be the case. Butter, sugar, meats and many other kinds of foodstuffs are scarce despite OPA supervision of them for years; building materials are critically scanty; automobiles, radios, electrical devices promised months ago have not yet arrived; clothing is disappearing from the markets.

In every one of these lines, the business interests concerned asserted ahead of time that OPA plans would cause scarcities, and have pointed out the specific points where too-rigid price controls have dried up production.

What about price controls—has the famous old HCL been kept in line? The answer must be an unqualified "no." A shopping list of today compared with one of a few years ago would tell an astounding story. Virtually everything we buy has soared. In many cases far higher prices today buy articles which are so inferior in quality that in the past they would not have been marketed.

So much for the listed prices. But in many commodities there are two prices—one the fictitious price on the tag; the other what the article really costs—the difference being made up at the taxpayers' expense.

For it is utterly wrong to call the OPA a program of price controls; it is not—it is a program of subsidies. The few cents in price on the counter which the OPA claims to be saving the purchaser is made up many times over at the expense of higher taxes and soaring public debt.

Is distribution fair and equitable? Again, no. How can anyone pretend that a system is fair and equitable when the man who is willing to patronize the black market can buy commodities denied to the citizen who, in Schwellenbach's phrase, "trusts OPA?"

The OPA has kept reconversion marking time for six months while it put on a sham battle against inflation. Now it is receding up and down the line—and planning to do the whole performance over again. It may have its face turned towards sound finances—but it is backing rapidly into the fire of inflation.

The record of OPA is one of fizzle and failure, of broken promises, of interference with production and stimulation of inflation.

The quicker it is replaced with a program of stimulating production and controlling only profiteering, the better for the nation.

He never once hesitated. He never once seemed lost for an answer. He never raised his voice. He spoke quietly with unwavering amiability and apparently unshakable patience. He showed no evidence of nervousness and gave no hint of feeling resentful at either the questions, the questioners or anybody else. He resorted to no tricks and put on no act. Altogether, it was an interesting and so far as the President was concerned, a creditable performance. It would have been a really fine performance but for one thing—his voice. Not that his voice at this, his toughest conference, was very different from his voice at other conferences. But this time it left one with more of a feeling that Mr. Truman was letting his bad luck get him down. There was no ring in his voice. Its tone was not that of a self-confident man, with zest for the combat. It seemed slightly dispirited.

THIS may do Mr. Truman injustice. He is, naturally, a modest man, unassertive and with no trace of the offensive superiority complex which was so pronounced in Mr. Roosevelt. It is nice to have a President who is neither cocky nor conceited. And it does not do to assume because a man speaks softly and without bluster or belligerence that he is also without courage. But no one is going to be afraid of Mr. Truman so long as his voice has that dispirited note. And a good many persons always ought to be afraid of the President of the United States.

DOYLESTOWN SETS ITS TAX RATE AT 12 MILLS

Budget for '46 is $107,176, including $3,400 for Library Operation

TO WIDEN A STREET

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 21 — The tax rate for Doylestown borough was set at 12 mills, the same as for the past year, at the meeting of borough council this week. Nine mills are for borough purposes, 2½ mills for debt, and one-half mill for fire purposes.

Council also passed the 1946 budget amounting to $107,176, which included a $3,400 estimate for the operation of the Melinda Cox Free Library. If Council deems it wise to spend that much.

The library improvement project presented to Council more than a month ago for consideration, came up for action again last night when Councilman G. Thawley Hayman said that the library trustees would like to know whether Council will support the proposition of maintaining a full-time library service for the town and the surrounding townships.

After a lengthy discussion on the matter, pro and con, the suggestion of Councilman Hayman that the borough offer to pay up to $2900 annually for the salary of the librarian and the assistant, subject, of course, to the legality of the move. This was passed unanimously on motion by Hayman, seconded by Councilman James Rufe. It was the opinion of Council that the library association should find a way to finance purchase of new books. The trustees had asked council for an appropriation of $3400 this year. The council has been appropriating $1200 annually to the library, with limited service provided. It is now planned to give the borough and surrounding communities up-to-date library service.

The street committee chairman reported that blue-prints have been completed for widening of Main street in the business section. He stated that the next step is to interview property owners before actual widening work gets underway. The street committee was authorized to advertise for bids for street materials.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start giving you backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood.

Bristol Counsellors Speak at Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, Feb. 21 — Introduced by Mrs. John Walker to members of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association in the school house here last evening, Miss Marion E. Peck, Hulmeville, and John Burris, Dolington, both counsellors at Bristol high school, gave enlightening talks.

Mr. Burris, the first speaker, informed that it is the job of the parent and teacher, as well as the counsellor, "to get the child to develop into the finest type of individual possible. We must think in terms of preventing some of the type of problems that come before us."

Then launching into a most interesting account of the type of problems presented the counsellors by the pupils, Mr. Burris named as outstanding factors contributing to the difficulties: Lack of security at home, lack of economic and spiritual security, lack of affection; too much responsibility thrust upon a child at a tender age, or too little responsibility given as a child grows in capabilities. "The responsibility must be gradual, starting with a small amount when the child is young, and increasing as he advances in age. . . . We must also give the child a sense of achievement." In citing some case histories the speaker reminded how lack of sense of security, plus the fact that a child is constantly "pushed down" by relatives, friends or teachers, can lead to mental unbalance in extreme cases. He reminded the parents and teachers of the big task confronting them in aiding the girls and boys, not only those of the high school but with the younger groups as well. "We must have that friendly feeling so the youngsters will have confidence in us and will come to us with their problems."

Miss Peck, the second speaker, was also eagerly listened to, she giving particular attention to specific cases that have come before her in her teaching career. The two, in presenting their combined subject, told of the frequent need for "ironing out" of clashes in personality, with teacher-student-counsellor conferences often proving helpful. Mr. Burris mentioned how guidance work continues for many students long after they have left the class-room, some in after years writing or approaching the counsellor for advice or assistance.

The program of the evening was arranged by the committee consisting of Mrs. Walker and Samuel J. Illick.

Ned Moyer presided during business, with the local principal, Frank Binder, leading in the flag salute. Minutes were read by Mrs. Earl Foster. It was reported that the cafeteria will not be operated this year, sufficient response on the part of parents not being received through questionnaires.

The Rev. Richard R. Gay reported on classes in religious training for eighth grade pupils. He also mentioned that possible backing of the Neshaminy Methodist Church for a Boy Scout troop may be secured, provided arrangements for leadership, meeting place, etc., are arranged.

Plans were tentatively made for an address to be delivered by Dr. Francis Harvey Green, of Pennington Seminary, Pennington, N. J., within a few weeks. The Rev. Mr. Gay, Mr. Illick and Mr. Binder were named as a committee to arrange such, with the public being invited. Attendance prize was awarded the sixth grade.

Music for the evening was provided by the junior choir of the Methodist Church, with Mrs. Richard R. Gay as accompanist. The selections were "Praise to the Lord" and "In the Garden of Tomorrow."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hubert Crawford, Mrs. Ernest Maret, and Mrs. Robert Taylor.

Denies The Charge That Information Was Withheld

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21 — (INS) — Otto Haas, a founder of Rohm & Haas Co., was under Federal charges today of conspiring to conceal the fact that the late Otto Rohm, Sr., an official of the German chemical firm I. G. Farben Co., also held a substantial block of the Rohm & Haas stock.

James E. Markham, alien property custodian, made the charges in U. S. District Court in answer to a petition filed by Haas last November requesting that the Government return 18,801 shares of common and 15,000 shares of preferred stock which belonged to Dr. Rohm, an alien, who died in Germany in 1939.

The government seized the stock in 1942. Haas in his petition, averred that the stock was held in trust in his name since May 20, 1926, and the stock was to revert to him in the event of its seizure by the alien property custodian.

Markham testified, however, that the trust was a "sham" and one of the results of "a conspiracy," which started at the outset of World War I, and "continued ever since."

He said the I. G. Farben company participated to "defraud the United States Government by concealing the true fact that the stock belonged to Dr. Rohm."

Colin C. Campbell, public relations director for Rohm & Haas, issued a statement last night, declaring:

"The assertion that Mr. Haas withheld information from the alien property custodian is categorically denied. The Rohm & Haas Company has provided the full information on the ownership of its outstanding stock and the circumstances under which the trust for the benefit of Dr. Rohm was created."

"That trust was not a sham, but a bona fide arrangement which gave to one of the founders of the business an equitable interest in it while retaining in the hands of an American citizen full control of its operation. The assertion that Dr. Rohm was an official of I. G. Farben, if true, was not known to anyone in the Rohm & Haas organization."

The company, one of the largest chemical manufacturers in the country with a plant in Bristol, was credited with the greatly increased production of Plexiglas during the war.

EXPECT BIG DROP IN WINTER WHEAT CROP

Will Be Approximately 3 1/2 Million Bushels Under 1945 Harvest

PROTEIN MEAL SCARCE

HARRISBURG (INS) — The State Agriculture Department reported today that Pennsylvania's winter wheat crop would drop approximately three and a half million bushels under the 1945 harvest.

Crop reporters attributed the decline in late planting due to autumn rains and early freezing due to lack of snow.

"Some wheat stands are in fair condition and most are well rooted," it was reported, "but the crop generally is not as good at this time as during other years."

Approximately 970,000 acres were planted with winter grain. They were expected to yield about 18 bushels apiece.

In addition to the low wheat supply, farmers were confronted with a scarcity of protein meals for cattle feed.

Statisticians for the State Agriculture Department said the soybean crop would be 20 per cent below demands while the 40 per cent less cotton seed and 40 per cent less linseed meal would be imported due to reduced crops.

"Although Pennsylvania farmers have boosted their soybean acreage 50 per cent above last year's figure," a spokesman said, "only 30,000 acres were planted."

"This will not be sufficient to meet the needs of dairy farmers and other livestock owners," he added.

The "egg-feed ratio," by which poultrymen scale their incomes, declined 16 per cent during January, according to the Federal-State crop reporting service.

Prices received for eggs declined 8.4 cents a dozen to 45.5 cents, it was reported, while the feed costs dropped only 1.5 cents below the state peak.

"It therefore took the value of 93 eggs to buy 100 pounds of feed averaging $2.50," officials stated.

"The January egg-feed ratio of 93 compares with 78 last December and 85 for January, 1945," they added. "A continuing increased spread in the ratio, coupled with the rapidly tightening feed supply situation, may cause more poultrymen and farmers to liquidate flocks or reduce them drastically."

Pennsylvania farmers were reported planning to reduce their purchases of chicks by 10 per cent. The January egg output was reported as 248,000,000, a 28 per cent increase above December and a 12 per cent gain over January, 1945. The increase reflected a reduced consumption of layers and favorable weather conditions. Approximately 19,196,000 hens were reported on state farms last month.

Dairy farmers, meanwhile, registered a three per cent drop in the January milk output due to curtailed feeding.

Nevertheless, the production of 386,000,000 pounds of milk last month was seven per cent above December figures. An average of 7.3 pounds of grain per cow was being used compared with 7.4 pounds at the same time last year. The January, 1946 average was "second highest in 23 years."

Choose Size and Type According to Need

The size of the celery stalk has no direct relation to the size of the heart. Since the housewife may not need celery hearts unless she is planning a company dinner, large fresh stalks in good condition may serve her needs even if the hearts are small. Coarse outer stalks serve admirably for such dishes as creamed celery and cream of celery soup. Pascal celery, even when it has large branches, is crisp and tender.

Housewives who estimate celery size by looking at it may be interested to know that vegetable dealers indicate size by numbers, which refer to the quantity packed per crate.

Use Celery as a Feature or a Filling

Celery is plentiful enough this season for plain meals and parties. Hostesses dress up the table with celery and serve it as contrast to more elaborate, cooked dishes. Its texture and flavor make it an important ingredient of salads, soups, and vegetable combinations.

Stuffed for both meat and poultry dishes frequently owe much of their flavor to celery, which also adds interest to dishes based on eggs and cheese. Stuffed with cottage cheese combined with nuts or olives, celery is an appetizing relish.

To prepare celery to serve raw, separate the stalks and wash them ahead of time. Put them in a cold place to crisp.

Choose Celery for Low Caloric Value

Celery appeals to those who are watching their weight. This crunchy vegetable carries only 22 calories in an edible portion of 100 grams. The same amount of canned orange juice carries 55 calories and of thin lamb 292 calories.

Calcium and phosphorus are among the important minerals contained in celery.

Check the Stalk for Quality

The most desirable celery, according to marketing specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is the one that is of medium length, thick, and solid, with stalks or "branches" that are brittle enough to snap easily. Such celery usually has good heart formation.

Pithy or stringy celery is undesirable. Pithy stalks are those of open texture with air spaces in the central portion. Pithiness can be detected by pressing or twisting the stalks and stringiness can be detected by breaking.

Freezing injury may cause a browning and drying of the tops, which may later decay.

Celery that has formed a seed stem has poor flavor and may be more or less bitter. The seed stem can be seen by separating the stalks or branches—the typical heart formation is replaced by the development of a solid roundish stem of varying size depending on the stage of development.

By The Rev. E. G. Yeomans

Our Gracious God and Heavenly Father, we pray for a new world. A world built, not on man's wisdom, but built on the wisdom of God, the Rock of Ages, even Jesus Christ, Thy Beloved Son in whom Thou art well pleased and by Whom we are redeemed.

Cleanse men's hearts of jealousy, pride and selfishness; fill them with the love of Christ that their motives and deeds may be pure and holy in Thy Sight.

Make us to realize that we cannot have peace on earth among men until we have peace with Thee in our own lives. Give us that Peace, we pray, through the Prince of Peace, even Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

BATTLE TONIGHT FOR 4TH PLACE IN YOUTH GROUP

Celtics Will Play Catholic B. C. in One of The Contests

EAGLES VS. SPORTERS

St. Ann's Quintet Will Meet The Falls Alumni In The Finale

The battle for fourth place in the Bristol Youth League will take place tonight on the Mutual Aid floor as the Celtics meet the Catholic Boys' Club as part of a triple-header. In the first game of the evening, the Third Ward Eagles will play the Fifth Ward Sporters while in the finale, the St. Ann's quintet will meet Falls Alumni. Opening tapoff is scheduled to take place at seven o'clock sharp. The Catholic Boys and Celtics have both won five games and lost six and tonight's winner will take undisputed possession of fourth place. Fourth place in the Youth League is the final position which a team can get to enter the playoffs. Both coaches, Vito Della, of the Celtics, and Joe Kervick, of Catholic Boys, will have their strongest line-up from start to finish because of the importance of the contest. After tonight's fracas both of these clubs will have but two more games to play.

The Eagles are the favorites over the Sporters who are attached firmly in the cellar. An Eagles' triumph will put them in a deadlock with Harriman for second place.

The fast-going St. Ann's team will attempt to add Falls Township to its list of victims. Manager 'Pete' Bormice will have the Barbetta brothers, Fred and Gene, 'Pete' De Luca, 'Rabbit' Palumbo, and Joe Gallagher in its starting line-up. The 'Falls' line-up will consist of players who recently returned from military service.

APPLE STOCKS LOW
ALBANY, N. Y. (INS) — Only 652,700 bushels of apples were in New York cold storages on January 1, a reduction of 22 per cent during December. The very low level of present holdings reflects the numerous 1945 crop failures. A year ago, stocks totalled 5,141,300 bushels, the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets said.

TWO GAMES TO BE PLAYED AT MAPLE BEACH

Panalyte Will Oppose The Strong Kaiser Cargo Five

LEAGUE GAMES

Roebeling vs. Rohm & Haas In The Nightcap Game

Two games will be played on the Rohm and Haas club-house floor tonight, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Both are Mercer County League games with Panalyte meeting Kaiser Cargo in the opener and J. A. Roebeling playing Rohm and Haas in the nightcap. Kaiser Cargo has third place clinched in the Mercer League and is certain to get in the playoffs. Panalyte and Rohm and Haas are running neck and neck for fourth place with the chemical mixers having a slight lead. Rohm and Haas was firmly entrenched in fourth place until the league ruled a replay of its game with Kaiser Cargo which was won by the Maple Beach team. It seems that Joe Snyder, who played with Rohm and Haas, was not signed in time to play. The Rohm and Haas boys must win tonight or drop into fifth place and lose a chance to enter the playoffs. "Teddy" Kearns' Roebeling team is in second place in the circuit standing with American Steel having first honors clinched. It was announced last night that on March 10th, Rohm and Haas will play Kaiser Cargo in a benefit game for the Bucks County Rescue Squad. A girls' game will also be played
